The Drinking Water Program: An Overview

The EPA established the Public Water System Supervision (PWSS) Program under the authority of the 1974 Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA). Under the SDWA and the 1986 Amendments, EPA sets national limits on contaminant levels in drinking water to ensure that the water is safe for human consumption. These limits are known as Maximum Contaminant Levels (MCLs) and Maximum Residual Disinfectant Levels (MRDLs). For some regulations, EPA establishes treatment techniques in lieu of an MCL to control unacceptable levels of contaminants in water. The Agency also regulates how often public water systems (PWSs) monitor their water for contaminants and report the monitoring results to the states or EPA. Generally, the larger the population served by a water system, the more frequent the monitoring and reporting (M/R) requirements. In addition, EPA requires PWSs to monitor for unregulated contaminants to provide data for future regulatory development. Finally, EPA requires PWSs to notify the public when they have violated these regulations. The 1996 Amendments to the SDWA require public notification to include a clear and understandable explanation of the nature of the violation, its potential adverse health effects, steps that the PWS is undertaking to correct the violation and the possibility of alternative water supplies during the violation.

The SDWA applies to the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Indian Lands, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, Guam, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Republic of Palau.

The SDWA allows states and territories to seek EPA approval to administer their own PWSS Programs. The authority to run a PWSS Program is called primacy. For a state to receive primacy, EPA must determine that the state meets certain requirements laid out in the SDWA and the regulations, including the adoption of drinking water regulations that are at least as stringent as the Federal regulations and a demonstration that they can enforce the program requirements. Of the 57 states and territories, all but Wyoming and the District of Columbia have primacy. The EPA Regional Offices administer the PWSS Programs within these two jurisdictions. The Oklahoma Department of Environmental Quality (DEQ) is the primacy agency for the State of Oklahoma Drinking Water Program.

The 1986 SDWA Amendments gave Indian Tribes the right to apply for and receive primacy. To receive primacy, a Tribe must meet the same requirements as a state. To date, no Tribes have been granted primacy. Currently, EPA administers PWSS Programs on all Indian lands.

Annual State PWS Report

Primacy states submit data to the EPA Safe Drinking Water Information System (SDWIS/FED) on a quarterly basis. Data include PWS inventory statistics, incidence of MCL exceedances, Major Monitoring and Treatment Technique violations, and enforcement actions issued to violators. The Annual Compliance Report that states are required to submit to EPA provides a total annual representation of the numbers of violations for each of the four categories listed in section 1414(c)(3) of the Safe Drinking Water Act reauthorization. These four categories are MCLs, treatment techniques, variances and exemptions, and significant monitoring violations. Violation and enforcement action data are stored in the SDWIS/FED database. The tables in this report are based largely on data retrieved from DEQ databases.

Public Water System

A Public Water System is defined as a system that provides water via piping or other constructed conveyances for human consumption to at least 15 service connections or serves an average of at least 25 people for at least 60 days each year. There are three types of PWSs. PWSs can be community (such as towns), non-transient non-community (such as schools or factories), or transient non-community systems (such as rest stops or parks). For this report, the acronym "PWS" means systems of all types unless specified in greater detail.

Maximum Contaminant Level /Maximum Residual Disinfectant Levels

Under the Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA), the EPA sets national limits on contaminant levels in drinking water to ensure that the water is safe for human consumption. These limits are known as Maximum Contaminant Levels (MCLs) and Maximum Residual Disinfectant Levels (MRDLs).

Treatment Techniques

For some regulations, the EPA establishes treatment techniques (TTs) in lieu of an MCL to control unacceptable levels of certain contaminants. For example, treatment techniques have been established for viruses, some bacteria, turbidity, and total organic carbon.

Variances and Exemptions

A primacy state can grant a PWS a variance from a primary drinking water regulation if the characteristics of the raw water sources reasonably available to the PWS do not allow the system to meet the MCL. To obtain a variance, the system must agree to install the best available technology, treatment techniques, or other means of limiting drinking water contamination that the Administrator finds are available (taking costs into account), and the state must find that the variance will not result in an unreasonable risk to public health. At the time the variance is granted, the state must prescribe a schedule (including increments of progress) the PWS will follow to come into eventual compliance with the MCL. Small systems (those serving 3,300 or fewer persons; or 10,000 or fewer persons with the Administrator's approval) may also be granted variances if they cannot afford (as determined by application of the Administrator's affordability criteria) to comply with certain MCLs (non-microbial, promulgated after January 1, 1986) by means of treatment, alternative source of water, or restructuring or consolidation. Small systems will be allowed three (3) years to install and operate EPA approved small system variance technology. The variance shall be reviewed not less than every five (5) years to determine if the system remains eligible for the variance.

A primacy state can grant an exemption temporarily relieving a PWS of its obligation to comply with an MCL, treatment technique, or both if the system's noncompliance results from compelling factors (which may include economic factors) and the system was in operation on the effective date of the MCL or treatment technique requirement. A new PWS that was not in operation on the effective date of the MCL or treatment technique requirement by that date may be granted an exemption only if no reasonable alternative source of drinking water is available to the new system. Neither an old or a new PWS is eligible for an exemption if management or restructuring changes can reasonably be made that will result in compliance with the SDWA or improvement of water quality, or if the exemption will result in an unreasonable risk to public health. The state will require the PWS to comply with the MCL or treatment technique as expeditiously as practicable, but not later than 3 years after the otherwise applicable compliance date.

Monitoring

A PWS is required to monitor and verify that the levels of contaminants present in the water do not exceed the MCL. If a PWS fails to have its water tested as required or fails to report test results correctly to the primacy agent, a monitoring violation occurs.

Significant Monitoring Violations

For this report, significant monitoring violations are generally defined as any major monitoring violation that occurred during the calendar year of the report. A major monitoring violation, with rare exceptions, occurs when no samples were taken or no results were reported during a compliance period. Detailed descriptions of what constitutes a major monitoring violation for most drinking water regulations can be found in EPA's Consolidated Summary of State Reporting Requirements for the Safe Drinking Water Information System (SDWIS), EPA 812-B-95-001 (Consolidated Summary). There are a few drinking water regulations for which the Consolidated Summary does not provide a definition of major monitoring violation. For those regulations, EPA has determined what constitutes a significant violation of the monitoring provisions and designed its annual SDWIS/FED ACR standard report to include both these violations and the defined major reporting violations in the tally of significant monitoring violations in a state. Addenda to the SDWIS/FED ACR standard report describe the additional monitoring violations EPA has determined are significant.

Public Notification

Every Community Water System is required to deliver to its customers a brief annual water quality report. This report is to include some educational material and will provide information on the source water, the levels of any detected contaminants, and compliance with drinking water regulations.

Significant Public Notification Violations

For this report, a significant public notification violation occurred if a community water system completely failed to provide its customers the required annual water quality report.

Public Water Supply Inventory – Calendar Year 2006

The SDWA defines a Public Water Supply system (PWS) as a system that provides water via piping or other constructed conveyances for human consumption to at least 15 service connections or serves an average of at least 25 people for at least 60 days each year. There are three types of PWSs. PWSs can be community (such as towns and rural water districts), non-transient non-community (such as schools or factories), or transient non-community systems (such as rest stops or parks). For this report, the acronym "PWS" means systems of all types unless specified in greater detail.

The Oklahoma Department of Environmental Quality also recognizes smaller systems as public water supplies. These public water supplies are referred to as minor or non-public water systems. Violations and enforcement actions for minor public water supply systems are not reported to SDWIS and are not included in this report.

The number of Community, Non-Transient Non-Community, and Non-Community water systems and the population served by each is given in the following table. The average number of individuals that consume water from each system each day is used to calculate the number of residents served by a public water supply. Because some systems are restaurants, tourist attractions, etc., individuals may be counted more than once due to where they patronize or work. Out-of-state individuals that visit or do business in the state are also counted.

Table A: Public Water Supply Systems by Type	Number of Systems	Population
Community Systems (C)	1,130	3,131,660
Non-Transient Non-Community Systems (NTNC)	110	21,566
Non-Community Systems (NC)	360	28,098
Total PWS systems meeting Federal Definition	1,600	3,181,324

Public water supply systems may receive their water from groundwater wells, surface water impoundments or reservoirs, or purchase water from other systems for their primary source of drinking water or for supplemental supply. The number of groundwater, surface water, and purchase systems and the population served by each type is given in the table below. Seventy-seven percent (77%) of the population is served by surface water or purchased from surface water systems.

Table B: Public Water Supply Systems by Source	Number of Systems	Population
Public Water Supplies using Surface Water as their Primary Source	205	1,990,865
Public Water Supplies using Groundwater as their Primary Source	748	629,960

Public Water Supplies purchasing from Groundwater systems	132	49,493
Public Water Supplies purchasing from Groundwater under the Influence of Surface Water systems	1	1,100
Total PWS systems	1,600	3,181,024

There are two thousand four hundred and thirty-six (2,436) water wells currently being operated by PWSs in the state of Oklahoma. The number of wells operated by community, non-transient non-community, and non-community water systems are given in the table below.

Table C: Number of Wells operated by Public Water Supply Systems
Community system wells	1,995
Non-Transient Non-Community Systems (NTNC) wells	145
Non-Community Systems (NC) wells	296

Comments and Remarks

The State of Oklahoma's Public Water Supply Program currently oversees one thousand six hundred (1,600) public water supplies ("PWS") that meet the federal definition of a PWS. Of these one thousand six hundred (1,600) systems, one thousand two hundred and sixty-one (1,261) or nearly seventy-nine percent (79%) of these systems reported no maximum contaminant level (MCL) violations or treatment technique violations.

Twenty-two (22) PWSs had forty-four (44) violations for exceeding the nitrate standard in at least one of their wells during the calendar year of 2006. Five (5) systems had seven (7) nitrate MCL average violations. Ninety-six (96) systems had one hundred and twenty (120) nitrate monitoring violations. Three (3) systems had six (6) violations for exceeding the MCL for the arsenic standard. There were five (5) systems with ten (10) violations for exceeding the MCL of the inorganic chemical contaminant (IOC) group. There were no systems in violation for IOC treatment technique. One (1) system had two (2) violations for IOC monitoring. There was (1) system with twenty (20) volatile organic chemical contaminant (VOC) group MCL violations. No systems had VOC treatment technique violations. Eight (8) systems had two hundred and eighty (280) VOC contaminant group monitoring violations. None of the systems had Radionuclide MCL or monitoring violations.

There were four hundred and seventy-six (476) violations of the Stage 1 Disinfectants and Disinfection Byproducts Rule (Stage 1 DBPR) MCL by one hundred and fourteen (114) systems. Seventy-nine (79) systems had two hundred and fifty-six (256) violations of the Stage 1 DBPR Treatment Technique requirement. Thirty-five (35) systems had eighty-five (85) monitoring violations for the Stage 1 DBPR.

Eighty-one (81) PWSs had ninety-six (96) Total Coliform Rule ("TCR") violations that indicated a coliform positive sample. Fifteen (15) mandatory Boil Orders were issued to systems that tested positive for fecal coliform or E-coli. Two hundred and fifteen (215) systems had four hundred and fifty-six (456) routine monitoring and reporting violations. Twenty-eight (28) systems had thirty-eight (38) repeat monitoring violations. These systems received notification of the violations. These notification letters do not include the threat of fines; therefore, EPA does not consider them formal enforcement actions.

All surface water PWSs in Oklahoma are required to provide filtration. One (1) of the two hundred and five (205) surface water systems violated the Surface Water Treatment Rule (SWTR) for treatment technique. None of the systems were in violation for SWTR monitoring and reporting. None of the systems had Filter Backwash Recycle Rule violations for treatment technique or monitoring and recordkeeping. There were sixty-one (61) turbidity treatment technique violations by twenty-eight (28) systems for Interim Enhanced Surface Water Treatment Rule ("IESWTR"). There were twenty (20) monitoring and reporting violations by five (5) systems.

. None of the systems had treatment technique violations for the Long Term 1 Enhanced Surface Water Treatment Rule ("LT1ESWTR"). None of the systems had treatment technique violations for the Lead and Copper Rule. Two (2) systems had two (2) monitoring violations for the Lead and Copper Rule. Of the one thousand six hundred (1,600) PWSs that are required to distribute Consumer Confidence Reports and Public Notices, all distributed the materials by their respective due dates.

The number and types of enforcement actions issued in 2006 are given in the table below:

Number of Enforcement Actions
Notices of Violation issued	845
Consent Orders issued with penalties	1
Consent Orders issued with no penalties	56
Administrative Compliance Orders issued	0
Boil Advisories issued	15
Administrative Penalty Assessed/Notice of Noncompliance	2
Total Number of Enforcement Actions Issued	919
Return to Compliance Issued	1,172

The Oklahoma Department of Environmental Quality issued nine hundred and nineteen (919) enforcement actions in response to the violations listed in this report. These enforcement actions consisted of eight hundred and forty-five (845) Notices of Violation (“NOVs”), fifty-seven (57) Consent Orders (“COs”), zero (0) Administrative Compliance Order (“ACOs”), fifteen (15) Boil Advisories, and two (2) Notice of Noncompliance. One thousand one hundred and seventy-two (1,172) systems were returned to compliance during the calendar year of 2006. A NOV is the first formal enforcement document issued to facilities when they exceed maximum allowable levels or failing to meet Department of Environmental Quality rules and regulations concerning matters such as construction deficiencies, monitoring, or operating procedures. A CO is typically the next order issued. The CO is an order that contains an agreement between the water system and the DEQ, and details the tasks and deadlines for correcting the cited violation. An ACO is an order that is issued when time is limited, and there is a significant health hazard, or the water system refuses to agree to the CO. In an ACO, the DEQ tells the water system what tasks need to be completed and sets deadlines for the completion of these tasks. Both the CO and the ACO have stipulated penalties for failing to meet the required deadlines. Boil Advisories are usually issued to systems that have “acute” or “fecal positive” bacteriological violations. Boil Advisories require immediate notice to all consumers in order inform the public of how to make their water safe for human consumption.
